

472.

Title: Theory of long distance interaction between antibodies and antigens

Author: Riss, U

Source title: EUROPEAN BIOPHYSICS JOURNAL WITH BIOPHYSICS LETTERS

Volume: 40 Issue: 8

pages: 987-1005

Publication year: AUG 2011

Abstract: Measuring the kinetics of antigen-antibody bindings we found an unexpected effect that can be explained by an automatic long distance detection of antigens by antibodies over up to 2 mm. We have developed a theory based on phase locking of THz waves, which leads antibodies automatically to their antigens. A mathematical proof of principle is done.